The name 'Sakhejung Tea' has been derived from the name of the village 'Sakhejung' where the tea processing unit and tea garden is situated.

Our founder, Milan Kumari Khatri was born and grew up in a family of farmers. When Milan initially started tea farming, there used to be decent returns and when others saw this, everyone started farming tea leading to a loss in revenue.

Due to this we started manually processing tea at home and started selling handmade tea directly to passersby. This was easier since our farm was next to the highway. Since orthodox tea was new to the market we also started providing samples to people. Slowly due to word of mouth we had people coming looking for us and also generated a good number of repeat customers.

Over the years we have added new advanced machines, new buildings, and have also generated more local and international interests.
